ACHIEVING CLIMATE JUSTICE

A Message from the Zonta Says NOW Working Group

Around the globe, women and girls are facing challenges within their everyday lives due to the climate crisis.

- In Mozambique, Aayan, age 11, is frightened she will be forced into marriage. Her family lost everything in floods, leaving them destitute and unable to feed her.
- In Australia, Maria, age 79, walks to the local library to find relief from extreme heat as she cannot afford to effectively cool her apartment. She has a heart condition and is worried about how she will financially, physically and mentally survive the summer.
- In Nigeria, Ralia, age 33, saw her entire market wash away in floods – taking away her livelihood and she is worried how she will feed her children.
- In Canada, Judith, age 42, has a daughter with severe asthma that is made worse by the wildfire smoke. Judith is worried she may lose her job as she must stay home to care for her child.
- In Sudan, Dabor, age 9, has to walk further each day looking for food, water and wood in her drought-affected country. There is no longer time for her to go to school and she no longer dreams of being a teacher.

The list goes on. The climate crisis is not about statistics. It is about people. These stories inspire the ZONTA SAYS NOW WORKING GROUP to take gender-equal climate action.

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE?

Climate Change: The long-term changes in the Earth's climate that are warming the atmosphere, ocean and land.

Climate Crisis: The serious problems that are being caused, or are likely to be caused, by changes in the planet's climate, including weather extremes and natural disasters, ocean acidification and sea-level rise, loss of biodiversity, food and water insecurity, health risks, economic disruption, displacement and even violent conflict.

Climate Justice: Putting gender equity and human rights at the core of decision-making and action on climate change as women and children are often more vulnerable in natural disasters. This is Zonta's focus on climate-related topics.

Climate Action: Actions we all should take to address climate change, climate crisis and climate justice.

Changing Climate and the Gender Gap

Our changing climate is widening the gender gap. Extreme heat, drought, fires, storms and floods cause immense social disruption, with millions losing their homes and livelihoods, and, in turn, magnify any existing disparities, including gender inequality.

Globally, women have less access to resources and opportunities than men, due to social norms and caring responsibilities. This makes them more vulnerable to the impacts of the climate crisis and more likely to be injured or killed during an extreme weather event. And, due to systemic gender inequality, women will find it harder to rebuild their lives after a disaster. The social upheaval caused by disasters increases women and

ZONTA SAYS NOW
TO GENDER-EQUAL CLIMATE ACTION

THE ZONTIAN • NOVEMBER 2023

The climate crisis is a human rights crisis — and a women's rights crisis.

UN Secretary-General Antonio Guterres, at CSW 66, 2022.

girls' risk of child marriage, forced prostitution, abuse, assault and human trafficking and also disrupts access to employment, education and health.

Yet women are key to resolving the climate crisis. Countries with more women in parliament often have more stringent climate policies and lower carbon emissions. When more women are on corporate boards, there is better transparency around carbon emission data. If women globally had the same legal rights as men, they could own and improve land (and feed 150 million more people), increase food security and start businesses to support their families. If girls had 12 years of education, they would have more choices, fewer children and more skills to build resilient communities than girls without education. Strengthening access to sexual and reproductive health gives women more options and opportunities, enabling their families and communities to survive better during and after a disaster.

Closing the Gap with Zonta

The Zonta Says NOW Working Group's task is to implement the recommendations in Zonta International's Statement on Climate Change by closing the gender gaps in education, economic opportunity, disaster response, STEM, health and leadership to achieve climate justice.

To keep Zontians, their families and communities safe during the immediate disasters and their aftermath, we are coming up with practical actions to take. We are developing 'action guides' and emergency packages that would help women escape the dangers of natural disasters and from violent situations. The first action guides relate to raising awareness and disaster preparedness. They recommend taking a first step to check if there are local emergency and disaster plans and what the recommended actions are for a disaster.

"When I visited our Ending Child Marriage project in Mozambique this year, I found that in every village, the local authorities said the biggest driver for child marriage was the changing climate. Homes that were hit by cyclones were destroyed and families did not have the means to rebuild them. To get the necessary money, families gave their adolescent daughters away to be married. We must take action to achieve climate justice, so no adolescents are forced to marry as a means to survive climate-related disasters." —President Ute Scholz.

The climate crisis is a gender equality crisis in which women are disproportionately affected. Through Zonta Says NOW, you can be part of the solution to build a better world for women and girls. To find out more, contact info@zontasaysnow.org.au.

UNEP- INC-3 (Third session) 13-19 Nov- Nairobi

- Background to the Treaty?
 - UNEP @50 a resolution
- Greenhouse gas emissions
- High temperature
- Extreme weather events occurring faster and intense
- Most affected are not the ones who cause the problem.

ZONTA
INTERNATIONAL

BUILD A BETTER WORLD
FOR WOMEN AND GIRLS

Background to INC-3

- Fossil fuels (non-renewable energy sources (coal, crude oils, petroleum products, non renewable wastes) are great contributors of CC
- They are slow acting poisons in the veins of our planet and economies

Background (cont,)

- We need healthy oceans and coastal ecosystems
- 80% of plastics end up in oceans and plastic production is projected to triple by 2060

What can Zonta pick out of INC-3?

- Join other voices to support the Treaty
- No matter how much our water is filtered, it can never get back to its pure form, and this has a negative impact on health

What can Zonta pick out of INC-3?

- Waste management: sort and separate plastics from other waste products
- Plastics destroy nature due to its harmful effects
- Plastic bags are the main cause of land pollution, they enter water bodies

What UNEP can pick from Zonta

- Women and girls' needs are unique regarding the environment
- They have unique health and safety concerns
- Gender-based violence concerns

What UNEP can pick from Zonta

- Gender related consequences of Climate Change
- Gender disaggregated CC actions
- Climate literacy for girls in school
- Women's full participation in the economy

Gender-responsive climate finance: the key to just climate action and tackling inequalities

Zonta International's Statement to the 68th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women

3 Goals

Ensuring equal access to quality education at all levels.

- Addressing barriers to girls' education, including strong cultural norms that favor boys' education and delegate household obligations to girls, inadequate sanitation facilities in schools, unsafe school environments, gender-based violence and child marriage.
- Ensuring girls' access to quality education at all levels, improving retention rates, supporting interventions that encourage girls to enroll in school and make the transition from primary to secondary school, and addressing the unique needs of young married girls to allow them to return to school and complete their education.
- Recognizing and elevating the voices of adolescent girls through formal and informal educational opportunities and community initiatives.

Expanding access to information and communications technology.

- Ensuring universal access to the internet.
- Addressing specific barriers to women's access to the internet, including cost, service quality and digital skills and competencies.
- Investing in digital skills education for women and girls, so they can fully and freely access the internet and participate online.
- Increasing investments in girls' education and support STEM Education and digital skills development for girls at the primary, secondary and tertiary levels to ensure lifelong access to learning opportunities and economic and employment opportunities of the future.

Addressing the immediate and long-term impacts of climate change on women and girls.

- Actively taking into account human rights, gender equality and empowerment of women and girls in defining and implementing national climate action plans, including gender-responsive measures that are more effective and respectful of human rights.
- Upholding the principles of climate justice agreed to in the Paris Agreement and ensuring that the most marginalized groups do not bear the brunt of the climate crisis.
- Ensuring that climate adaptation and mitigation plans address the unique needs of women and the barriers to women's full participation in the economy, including childcare and elder care services, occupational segregation, informal work, the gender pay gap, and legal and social restrictions.
- Recognizing the importance of women as decision-makers, educators, caregivers, community leaders and experts across sectors and utilizing their unique perspectives and expertise to develop successful, long-term strategies to address climate change.
